Directions for Halifax Harbour, taken from the printed Directions in Custom-House at Halifax.

SAMBRO island and light house is in latitude 44 deg. 30 min. N. longitude 63 deg. 32 min. W.

From the westward, bring the light to bear N. E. if it bears more easterly, stretch to the southward till it bears N. E. and as much more northerly as you please, there being no shoal or ledge to the southward; when it opens on your larboard bow; give it more than a mile and a half distance much more as you please.

Note—The western ledges lie from the light S W distant two miles, other W S W about one league; the eastern ledges lie in a range nearly above water; the outermost one mile and a half from the light lying from it E N E.

When the light bears north distant about 2 miles, run N E 4 miles, north will carry you to Chedabucto Head at a proper distance clear of danger.

When a-breast of Chedabucto Head, run N. $\frac{1}{2}$ W for the south point of George's Island.

When within $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile of George's island you may enter the harbour of it in 18 fathoms, or east of it in 15.

In passing between Sandwich point and Meagher's beach run nearest point to shun a shoal which runs off S W from the beach.

There is also a shoal lying one mile south of Sandwich point.

Coming from the eastward, run for the light and you cannot fail see Chedabucto Head as you open Halifax Harbour; the light being 4 miles distant from the Head to the S W.

JANUARY hath XXXI Days.

Fine sense is not half so good as common sense.

Nothing is more silly than an ill-timed laugh.

The most expensive luxuries are not always the most pleasant.

Our reputation ought to be dearer to us than life.

Ostentation takes from the merit of any action

Beauty is no longer amiable, than whilst virtue adorns it.

FEBRUARY hath XXVIII Days.

Vice is universally the bane of happiness.
 It is much easier to debase others, than to raise ourselves.
 Dreams, like notorious liars, are generally false.
 The most effectual antidote against sorrow, is employment.
 Those who give nobody a good word, deserve any body's good word.
 What is fixed in our hearts is seldom out of our heads.
 Only the good and wise can be friends; others are but companions.
 Idleness has many friends, but no advocates.
 Hasty resolutions are seldom fortunate.

JOWLER.
 "I suppose I must save a piece for Jowler," said poor Mrs. Needy, while crumpling her children's supper. Yes, good woman, save a piece for your dog, but when you give it him, be sure to load it with ratsbane. But stop! I think Dr. Chymical says that this will not answer the purpose, for he will throw it up the moment it begins to sicken him. Then take your fowling-piece and despatch him without ceremony. It is surprising that a poor man who can but just rub and go, and has to scratch hard to find bread for his numerous little ones, must also keep a great lazy beef-eating dog in his house. Once in a great while this animal may be of some use, but no one half pays his living.

Away with your Jowlers and Towers, your Whitefoots and Lightfoots—I had rather have one length of good fence to keep cattle out of mischief, than all the dogs in the universe."

Prometheus struck fire from flints about 1715 years before Christ he being the first is said to have stolen it from heaven; and became author of all the arts among the Greeks.

MARCH hath XXXI Days.

Poverty is the natural offspring of idleness.
There are but few things wanting to make a wise man happy ; nothing can make a fool contented.

The most common things are the most useful.

Ignorance is the source of vanity and folly.

1	7	David	Take good care of your sheep. This is the best direction for the preservation and management of weak lambs that can possibly be given; for the best nursing for such lambs is to keep the ewes well, either upon your best English hay or red clover, with potatoes, carrots or white beans. Such feeding will ensure you strong lambs, with plenty of milk and save all the trouble of nursing. If any one lack these means or others equally proper (for even barley, oats and corn will answer as substitutes for the potatoes, carrots or white beans, if given in small quantities, so as not to excite fever, and thereby cause ticks and the shedding of the wool) or if he neglect to use them, let him remember that such weak lambs should be treated in all respects as if they had been drowned and he would restore them to life. Apply gentle and regular warmth; give them warm milk frequently in small quantities (the milk of the sheep is best,) and if the ewe has milk sufficient for its support, you may generally raise them; but if not they commonly die. It is more work to nurse one such lamb for 24 hours, than to feed regularly one hundred sheep for the same time — Take your choice. He that would live at peace and rest, Must hear, and see, and say the best.

APRIL hath XXX Days.

Marriage has many pains, but celibacy has few pleasures.
That should always be well taken that is well meant.
Time is a friend to the mind though an enemy to the person.
Hope and sound sleep are two of the greatest comforts of life.
Few things are impossible to industry and skill.
Some people are always busy, and yet do nothing.
Confidence is a plant of slow growth in an aged bosom.

Cool and lodging, before the other part is grown fit to cut, and thus turn to your best profit, what, if neglected, would become waste and damage.

Expose not the imperfections and failings of your neighbours. Let detraction alone, unless you would bring trouble upon yourself.

"I knew it would be so," said old Tittle-tattle, "and it is good enough for him. Mr. Peakaboo and I have seen and heard more than every one thinks of!" Shoh! shoh!

old busybody! you had better mind your own concerns, and take heed to your own ways than thus to squint and belie your neighbours

No character is more to be detested than that of an eaves-dropper. Come let us attend to our own windows, and if they are stuffed with old rags, out with them and sell them for glass which is now cheap enough. Is your barn tight and snug? Cattle should be kept warm and comfortable; and you have heard that "a merciful man is merciful to his beast."

You may plant cucumbers to advantage the first of next month. They will often be as early as those planted in May, and generally bear better. Nurse your plants with your hoe often. Remove the dry earth, and give them fresh earth. especially if the season be dry. The best time is early in the morning. Continue to hoe and weed out your onions, and all other plants. even before the weeds appear, if possible. Hoe and bush your late peas. Plant more potatoes; sow more turnips. Continue to plant cucumbers for pickling. Top all such bush beans as are in blossom, by cutting off the top of the vines near to the blossom: they will be earlier and bear better. Thin out. and earth up all your plants. Remember that frequent hoeing is both rain and manure to your plants, especially in dry weather, if done in the morning. Plant out your cabbages, cauliflowers, &c in moist or cloudy weather, but not when the ground is wet and heavy. Thin out your beets, carrots and parsnips, and fill up the rows that may be vacant. Cut your sage, mint, &c, when they begin to flower, and spread them to dry in an airy place.

As your winter manures, from the farm-yards and hog-sties, are doubtless disposed of to the best advantage, it becomes necessary that you attend to the formation of your summer manures, to dress your lands in autumn. Let your hogs be enclosed in an open pen, near to, or in one part of your barn yard. In to this enclosure throw the scrapings of your barns, together with every vegetable sub-

Stay at home and mind your business, and leave litigation and the lawyers to those who have less sense and more money. I never view the crowds that repair to our Court-houses in the Country, and spend day after day during term time in gazing at each other; without regretting that they are not at home attending to affairs which will be more productive of pleasure and advantage. Nor do I ever observe their unfortunate horses tied to fences and famishing through want of food, but I think how many industrious and deserving men, are pining in obscurity because they do not possess the means which these spendthrifts of time are so criminally neglecting.

I recollect in one of my excursions through the country, to have observed a hale-hearted looking young man arrive every day while the Court was sitting, and after waiting nearly a couple of hours for an interview with his lawyer, would proceed to the Court house where he would remain until the rising of the Court, then return to the tavern, procure what is generally termed refreshment, and having done so, would mount his jaded horse and set off for home.

I was struck with this persons appearance, and having occasion to visit the same place about a year after; I found the him occupied

OCTOBER, hath XXXI Days

Much tongue and much judgment never go together.

We please more by never offending, than by giving a great deal of delight.

A man without a secret is an open letter for every one to read.

Friendship, when sincere, ever smoothes the path of life.

Nature never said one thing, and wisdom another.

in a similar manner. But he no longer exhibited the same ruddy appearance; his face was bloated, his figure emaciated, and his speech hesitating and tremulous. It appeared that the object which he had engaged in a law suit to obtain had eluded his grasp, and that he had reduced himself to wretchedness and want by the expences which had been incurred in the pursuit.

He no longer met with the same attention at the tavern as formerly. His enquiries if the tavern keeper did not say he should have dinner; if it obtained an answer was one abrupt and rude, as the servants turned away to attend to the commands of a new or more profitable customer.

It was after one of these rebuffs that as I sat at my window, I observed him walk out of the house, with a countenance in which shame and hunger strove for the mastery; and meeting at the door with a wealthy gentleman, I heard him bargaining for the sale of what appeared to me to be his last ox; this animal, after some difficulty, he sold at a reduced price, and was to be paid for, partly by a note, drawn in favour of a neighbour who had made him advances, and partly in goods out of the store.

With a heartless and dejected demeanour, he then bestrode his miserable steed, and again retraced his steps towards his de- late

The greatest of all evils is a usurious disposition.
He who gives to be seen, will never relieve a man in the dark.

Tempers like faces often appear best at a distance.

The virtuous man may date his destruction by giving way to the first temptation.

Dry your seeds well before you put them up; and when put up, let the air have access to them. It is best to put them into drawers, or partitions of drawers, kept part way open. Gather from your gardens all winter vegetables, before the hard frosts commence, especially winter squashes; dry and house them carefully. If you do not select your seed-corn, before gathering, from the hills, do it as you are husking, selecting the fairest and ripest ears, and such as have the smallest cob, and are best filled out at the ends; though the kernels near the end should never be reserved for seed.

Now is the time to improve your next crop. By pure seed, and by selecting the earliest or the ripest, you may bring forward your succeeding crops 10, 15 or 20 days earlier, and thus enable you to improve your late sowing. Nor need the improvement stop here. By selecting your seed-corn from your field, taking the ripest ears, (at different stages of the corn, and beginning early in Sept.) and from the most thrifty stalks, you may bring forward your next crop still earlier. And moreover if you select this seed from such stalks only, produce two or more ears, you may by adhering to this practice, double or even treble your quantity of corn upon the same grounds, with only the same tillage.

Now picking winter apples, carting corn, throwing up gardens into ridges, digging potatoes, &c. keep all hands busy by day; while husking, eating baked puddings, applepies, &c. and telling a merry tale, or singing a humorous song, make a long evening speed swiftly and pleasantly away.

Industry may now relax a little from her annual toils and look around her on her comforts and enjoyments, with a brightening countenance, while the warm aspirations of gratitude issuing from her heart ascend to the Giver of all Good, from whom those comforts and enjoyments are all derived.

Securely house your carts harrows ploughs and all the implements of the summer's labours. Improve the first spell of sledding to renew your stock of wood. See that your fences be in good repair, to prevent the cattle, &c. from injuring your crops of winter grain, meadows, &c. in case of an open winter. Hogs for home use may now be killed as it is the best time for making good bacon.

Feed not only your cattle but also the houseless foodless child of want: so will the prayers of the poor call down blessings on you and yours.

The times in the above Table are to be added to or subtracted from the time of high water at Halifax, according to the directions there given. Example—To find the time of highwater at Quebec May 1 1823. The time of highwater at Halifax May 1 by the Almanack is 0h 4m. To this add 30m (the time set against Quebec in the Table) and you have the time of high water at Quebec 0h 34m.

Eclipses for 1823.

There will be Six Eclipses this year; four of the Sun, and two of the Moon, in the manner following:—

I. The first will be of the Sun, January 12th day, 4h 42m in the morning; of course invisible here.

II The second will be of the Moon, January 26th day, 0h 59m in the evening; of course invisible here.

III The third will be of the Sun, February 10th day, 10h 52m in the evening; consequently invisible to us.

Time of going through the Falls.

THE Falls are level (or still water) about three hours and an half on the Flood and about two hours and an half on the ebb, which makes it passable four times in 24 hours about 10 or 15 minutes each time.—No other rule can be given, as much depends on the floods in the River St. John and the time of high water or full sea, which is often hastened by winds, and in proportion to the height of them.

TO TRAVELLERS.

For the information of Travellers between Windsor and Parrsborough &c.

THE Parrsborough Packet sails regularly between Windsor and Parrsborough every week, from the 1st April to Christmas, viz.—leaves Parrsborough on Monday, wind and weather permitting so as to be at Windsor on Tuesday; and will sail from thence the first high water that happens after eight o'clock in the morning of that day; the Packet frequently sails twice or three times a week when business requires it.

The Praise of Potatoes.

Hail-rare Potatoes! hot or cold all hail!
O quickly come mine appetites delight!
Whether in ovens fiery concave closed
By Bakers art, delicious thou'rt embrown'd
While rills of purple gravy from the pores
Of mighty beef improve the luscious fare.—
Whether the dame of culinary skill
Have rudely scalp'd thee o'er, and to the rage
Of warring elements consign'd thee deep
Beneath the cope of air excluding lid
In humid durance plung'd; or when with steaks
Of marbled vein, from rump of stall fed steer
Disparted late—sliced in the shallow pan
I view thee kindly stew'd how joys my heart!
How flash with eager glance my longing eyes!
Or in the tedious eve when nipping frost
Reigns Potent; mid the smouldring embers roast
(From sulterranean store selected) those
Of amplest size rotund, of native coal
Yet unberest; and if my homely board
Penurious, add but few salubrious grains
Of humble salt, -I bless the cheap repast

orough &c.
or and Pars-
viz.—leaves as to be at a water that the Packet
quires it.
